The heart of the stove is made of cast iron, which stores the heat and releases it in a uniform and comfortable way.

If you prefer to use the optimal heating capacity, the door is pushed down and the stoves will give you optimal heating. Thanks to the large glass door the fire can be viewed from wide angles.

If you wish to enjoy the open fireplace, you just push the door up and the room will be filled with a quite different atmosphere.

Holscher stoves are available in an elliptical form, which provides the panoramic effect and many ways of positioning, ie. corners.

The stove is also made in a rectangular form to fix on the wall, to place on a base or as a built-in stove.
